Community Read Examines Questions of JUSTICE, EQUALITY, POVERTY

The Catawba County Library, in collaboration with Catawba Valley Community College, is initiating a community read and discussion series of Bryan Stevenson's Just Mercy, an unforgettable true story about the redeeming potential of mercy, and winner of the Carnegie Medal for Excellence in nonfiction.

Just Mercy is a memorable account of an idealistic young lawyer's coming of age, an emotional window into the lives of those he has defended, and an inspiring argument for compassion in the pursuit of true justice.

Bryan Stevenson founded the Equal Justice Initiative, a legal practice dedicated to defending those who are most desperate and in need. One of his first cases was that of Walter McMillian, a young man who was sentenced to die for a notorious murder he didn't commit. The case drew Bryan into a tangle of conspiracy, politics, and legal maneuvering that transformed his understanding of mercy and justice forever, and led to this widely acclaimed book.

"This community read challenges us to consider ourselves as part of a larger community and society," said Library Director Suzanne White, "bringing us together to share a book, engage civically, discuss important issues of justice, equality, and poverty—and how we can work together to make a difference."

Programming, which began at CVCC earlier this year, continues through March at all Catawba County Library locations, and includes TED Talks, Book Talks, film screenings, dramatic readings, and more, centered around the concept of mercy in the criminal justice system. There will be limited book giveaways at each event.

On March 20, keynote speaker Anthony Ray Hinton, recently exonerated by Bryan Stevenson's Equal Justice Initiative after more than three decades on death row, will share his powerful story. He will speak at 11 am at CVCC's Tarleton Center, and again at 6 pm at the 1924 Courthouse in Newton, with a reception to follow at the History Museum of Catawba County.

This project was partially funded by a grant from the United Arts Council of Catawba County.

HMONG KEEB KWM CELEBRATES HMONG CULTURE

The Catawba County Library has been awarded a National Endowment of the Humanities grant to honor the local Hmong community by collecting and curating Hmong cultural heritage, digitally preserving it and enabling access for everyone, especially future generations.

The Hmong Keeb Kwm (or Hmong History) project is a partnership of the Library, the Catawba County Historical Association, and Digital Heritage NC. The Library encourages all members of the Hmong community to bring any Hmong artifacts, such as papers, photos, or other physical items, to a collection event to be digitally preserved. Objects will be scanned or photographed on site and returned to owners along with a digital copy. With approval, the library will also catalog a second digital copy to be shared online through Digital Heritage NC.

Additionally, Hmong Keeb Kwm will offer video interviews to capture and record rich personal experiences.

Join us Saturday, February 24 from 10 am-2 pm at the Main Library in Newton to celebrate our first collection day with traditional Hmong dance and food. Then, stay tuned for future Hmong Keeb Kwm collection days and lifelong learning opportunities throughout the year!
